Early Settlement of Maritime Tieup Appears "Hopeful"

Striking Union Leaders Meet Today in Effort To End Walkout

(By The Associated Press) An early end of the second nationwide shipping strike in a month was forecast today by Conciliation Director Edgar L. Warren who summoned all disputants to an afternoon conference in Washington "to try to drive home a settlement."

The conciliation chief said a continuous meeting would start at noon (CST) and that he saw no need for further adjournments of the negotiations. A commission official said he saw "reasonable hope" for early settlement.

AFL and CIO union leaders, as well as government officials who asked anonymity, said the Maritime commission had made it known it would enforce on all government-owned vessels any changes in working conditions agreed upon by east coast shipowners and the two unions which represent captains, mates and engine-room officers. Refusal of Pacific coast shipowners to follow the eastern companies in meeting contract demands remained the principal stumbling block in the dispute.

Further negotiations were planned today between the shipowners and the two seafaring unions involved in the walkout which started Monday—the CIO Marine Engineers and the AFL Masters, Mates and Pilots.

The major issue under discussion in Washington has been "union security"—as other issues, including wages, were gradually being cleared away. CIO longshoremen striking on the west coast were reported to be near agreement with their employers at San Francisco. The Masters, Mates and Pilots has demanded a 30 per cent pay boost; the Marine Engineers union, however, asked a hike of 35 per cent and the longshoremen 33 cents more an hour to boost their hourly pay to $1.70.

Meanwhile, other major labor disputes continue, including the crippling power strike in Pittsburgh where the number of jobless mounted because of work stoppage. Streetcar and bus service remained halted as a result of picketing by members of the Independent power union, while 2,000 AFL workers were on strike against the city's eight major hotels in a dispute over wages.

"An act of sabotage" was blamed by a spokesman for the Duquesne Light Co., strikebound for nine days, for the 40-minute interruption last night of electric service to 18,000 residents of two communities in the Pittsburgh area. The union, which is demanding 20 per cent wage increases, planned further meetings today with company representatives.

Hollywood Police Alerted
In Hollywood, Calif., police officers were alerted for any possible recurrence of yesterday's outbreak of violence in the movie labor dispute. Yesterday 28 pickets and nine sheriff's deputies were injured and 13 persons were arrested in a clash as police attempted to break up a parade by 400 pickets at the gates of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. The latest outbreak of violence brought to 56 the total arrested since picketing started last week in a renewal of the jurisdictional dispute between two AFL unions.

Two other continuing disputes interrupted the transportation of thousands in Columbus and in Chicago and its nearby western suburbs. CIO operators and maintenance men struck in the Ohio

Nettz Marks 41st Year—As Dixon Auto Dealer

George Nettz, local automobile dealer, who yesterday completed 41 years as the Ford Motor company agent here, was the recipient today of a letter of appreciation and congratulations for a "mutually pleasant and profitable association."

The letter follows:
"In checking over our records, we note that Oct. 1 this year marks the 41st anniversary of the signing of your sales agreement with our company.
"We want to take this opportunity of extending you our sincere congratulations and expressing to you our appreciation of the mutually pleasant and profitable association that has existed between us. It is our hope that this association will continue on an equally pleasant and profitable basis for many years to come."

Government Chiefs Search in Vain to Solve Meat Muddle

Washington, Oct. 2.—(AP)—The administration was reported casting about today for some means of easing the meat shortage, but no ready solution appeared in sight.

Aides of top policy-making officials told reporters they thought there was little chance the government would take either of two steps which agriculture department meat authorities described as the only apparent ones for increasing supplies.

These are (1) easing of controls and raising prices in order to encourage marketing of cattle and hogs, or (2) government requisitioning of meat animals from farms.

A third possible step was suggested earlier this week by Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson. He said the government might find it necessary to seize livestock arriving at markets.

Experts said this might lead to better distribution of available meat but would not increase total supplies.

On the political front: Senator Capehart (R-Ind) said reports reaching him indicated that "the people of America are up in arms over the shortage of meat and are rightly blaming the administration."

Result of OPA
"It is the result of administration and OPA bungling," Capehart added to a reporter.

He said that to his mind the meat shortage had removed any question that there will be a "Republican sweep" in the November congressional elections.

On the other side, Senator Lucas (D-Ill) said in a separate interview that he did not believe the meat shortage would be a political factor.

"Meat is short but nobody that I know of is hungry or starving," he said.

Lucas is chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee. He predicted the Democrats will retain senate control, perhaps pick up seats, and will hold the house.

The Illinois senator also predicted the meat shortage will soon begin to ease. He said western cattlemen have been holding back their cattle, hoping for removal of price control, but are coming to the point now where they must sell them.

New Training Plan Revealed by Army At Legion Meeting

Patterson Seeks Aid For Plan; Affects Every Male Aged 17 to 19

Washington, Oct. 2.—(AP)—The army took the wraps off its revised plan for universal military training today as Secretary of War Patterson asked the American Legion at San Francisco for active backing.

The proposal bore only the War department's official approval but about three of every ten men trained would be for the navy. Hence officials of the sea arm forecast navy support for the measure before congress. The Legion earlier this year sponsored a plan similar in outline.

All 17-19 Register
Principal provisions include: Those affected—at the outset, every male citizen between 17 and 19, inclusive, would be required to register. Thereafter youth would register upon reaching 17. Training would start as they reached their 18th birthdays or upon graduation from secondary schools, but in either case before age 20.

Numbers—About 1,000,000 fit men estimated to be available annually, of whom 726,000 would be trained for the army ground and air forces and the rest for the navy.

Training required—One year or its equivalent. The first six months would be in army camps, with eight weeks devoted to basic military training, and the rest of the semester to technical and advanced training. Six hours a week would be earmarked to physical education.

Have Several Options
To discharge the obligation of the last half of the required year, a man would have three options: serve six more months; enlist in any of the armed services, the national guard, or join the organized reserve for duty with a fully organized unit; enter one of the service academies; go to college.

U. S. Interest Still Up in Dardanelles, Russia Discovers

U. S. Statements Making Policy Clear; Back Turkey Again

The Soviet union keeps the pressure on Turkey over the Dardanelles, and if the purpose is to find out whether American interest in the issue is genuine and lasting Moscow must have had its answer in the last two days. Statements by two of the highest ranking spokesmen in Washington should convince anyone that American diplomacy is following every turn with the liveliest interest and that the armed forces of this nation are cooperating closely in the support of foreign policy. The lessons of the Wallace incident are evident in the close coordination of pronouncements of Navy Secretary Forrestal and Acting Secretary of State Acheson on our policies and the disposition of our forces in the Mediterranean and the Middle East.

U. S. Policy is Plain
They also make plain the policy of the United States, in keeping with its support on the United Nations, to take an active interest in any situation which might be a threat to peace anywhere in the world. Acheson emphasized this in his news conference yesterday.

Luke Forrester on Monday he pointed out that American naval forces have been operating in the Mediterranean since the beginning of the republic. He saw no reason why that should be changed now. This seems to imply that American interest in the Dardanelles and the Mediterranean is no new thing. In a sense that is true. But it is also a fact that American determination to stand against threats to peace in those areas stems from a policy born of our experience in World War II. This policy is a definite departure from that followed in the truce between the two great wars. It means the fulfillment of the obligations the United States assumed in the covenants of Tehran, Yalta and Potsdam and in the charter of the United Nations.

Kremlin Needs Convincing
Acheson disclosed that discussions are proceeding in the State department concerning Moscow's latest demands on Turkey. While he did not indicate what action might be taken, other authorities said there was little doubt that if circumstances required the United States would repeat as strongly as necessary the stand taken in its note of Aug. 19 to Moscow. That note emphatically opposed the Soviet proposals for joint Russo-Turkish defense of the strategic straits and elimination of non-Black Sea powers from the agreements governing control of the straits. Indications from London are that Britain takes the same stand.

It appears to be necessary still to convince the Kremlin that the American foreign policy is unified, supported by the majority of the nation and likely to proceed along fixed lines in spite of domestic political changes. Moscow either is skeptical of these things or is trying to undermine Washington's

Skeletons Found By GI Rescuers

Shanghai, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Three Americans flew to Sichang today hoping to pave the way for rescuing five airmen reported enslaved by Lolos and to identify three skeletons brought here Saturday.

The skeletons were found three days hiking distance from Sichang, where they had been taken by Chinese. They were examined carefully by medical experts but no identifying clues were found. Chinese who discovered the remains found an unscrubbed wrist watch and a piece of parachute silk which also were brought to Shanghai.

Meantime, U. S. soldiers were slogging painfully across mountainous western China seeking the captives. They set out from Sichang last week. Traveling without radios, they have no means of communication.

The search plane party will be prepared to negotiate on the spot if downed Americans are found among the Lolos, who are expected to demand food for ransom. A rescue plane will be held ready at Shanghai.

A Chinese drug merchant, whose reliability was vouched for by Dr. David C. Graham of West China Union university, said he had received reliable reports five U. S. airmen were enslaved by the Lolos in 1944.

Fog, Smoke Cause 2 Highway Accidents Near River Forest

Chicago, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Fog and smoke from burning beet bogs resulted in a series of automobile collisions near suburban Winnetka last night in which at least seven persons were injured.

Police said the collisions, involving seven cars and two trucks, were caused by restricted visibility on Skokie highway between Tower and Willow roads, near Winnetka. Sheriff's police blocked off a two-mile stretch of highway, still in fog and smoke, cleared.

The first crash occurred when the automobile of Mrs. Wally Gruetzmacher, 52, Chicago, was struck from behind as she slowed down to enter the area, by an auto driven by Edward Swanstrom, Chicago. Mrs. Gruetzmacher was treated in Evanston hospital for slight injuries.

Then Henry Warner West Bend, Wis., a driver for the Olson Trucking company, slowed his truck when he approached the cars in the first accident and was struck by an automobile driven by Clarence J. Bruce 57, Chicago. Bruce and his wife, Anna, were treated for cuts and bruises.

Cab is Bumped
About that time Steve Jeniso, a cab driver, of Highland Park, stopped his cab and turned on yellow fog lights when he saw the crashed cars and trucks. Jeniso's cab was struck from the rear shortly after he stopped but the driver of the second car could not be found when police arrived.

In the meantime, Philip J. Reddy, 58, of suburban Lake Forest, driving north in the area crashed into a parked car. He and his wife, Marguerite, 52, were treated in

Cities Ask Cut of Illinois Sales Tax

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The Illinois Municipal league's 33rd annual convention today voted to seek from the 1947 general assembly legislation pro-rating to cities a portion of the two per cent state sales tax.

A resolution adopted by the convention without dissent said there existed "an imperative need for financial aid" to Illinois cities and villages through additional revenue from the state.

Mayor Frank G. Wallin of Waukegan in debate on the resolution said expenses in his city for fire and police protection and for garbage collection and disposal this year would exceed income available for these purposes by about $64,000.

B-29 Crash Reported; No Known Survivors
Wendover, Utah, Oct. 2.—(AP)—An army B-29 plane crashed in Buffalo Valley, 30 miles south east of Battle Mountain, Nev., and army authorities said today they believed there were no survivors.

Number of men aboard was undisclosed but a B-29 crew normally is about ten.

Wendover army air base authorities said cause of the crash was undetermined. The plane was en route from Grand Island, Nebr., to Hamilton Field, Calif.

Happy Birthday to 100-Year-Old Mrs. Emma Ames Today

It's happy birthday today to Dixon's oldest resident!
Mrs. Emma Ames, whose philosophy of life has been to "live within the day and be useful," will derive a very special enjoyment from living today, because this is her 100th birthday.

Mrs. Ames, who has lived with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Goodsell, 317 East Fellows street, since the death of her husband, Thomas, in 1927, is observing the day quietly. Mrs. Goodsell is planning a small reception in honor of her mother this evening.

Comfortable and in excellent health, Mrs. Ames has only one formula for long life, the philosophy by which she has lived these 100 years. She still retains a lively interest in life and the activity about her, although weak eyes have hampered her interest in art and music.

Mrs. Ames was born Oct. 2, 1846 in Pittsford, Vt., the daughter of James R. and Emeline Hendee Smith.

She attended a private girls school in Syracuse, N. Y., from where she went to the Cazenovia seminary, Cazenovia, N. Y., majoring in art and music. She was graduated from the seminary in 1861, and continued her studies in New York and Chicago under C. C. Marlton and James Ross Bryson.

Among her early recollections, she recalls the assassination of Abraham Lincoln, recalling that her father, cried as he told his family of the tragedy.

Legion Counts On Its Younger Vets

San Francisco, Oct. 2.—(AP)—World War I veterans, although reluctant to see the decline of their regime frankly admitted in off-the-record discussions today they will have solid support from World War II servicemen if they are to carry out objective calling for adequate national defense, veterans aid and Americanization.

World War II veterans while they have increased Legion membership to approximately 3,800,000, still are not pulling their weight in the organization's activities.

The reasons are three-fold, old timers said. First, World War II has been over a little more than a year and the veterans of that conflict have been concerned with matrimony and establishing homes.

Secondly, they have been worried about jobs. And, third, many of them are more interested in completing their education than anything else.

Veterans of the first world war encountered the same situation in the early 20s. It was several years after World War I before the Legion really got going.

On the convention agenda today were reports on foreign relations and other matters interspersed with speeches by Admiral William F. Halsey, Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson, Undersecretary of the Navy John L. Sullivan, Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Director of Selective Service, and National Legion Commander John Stelle.

Mrs. E. C. Ticknor is Local Caller Tuesday

Mrs. E. C. Ticknor and son, Lee, and his little daughter, of Oak Park, were here yesterday to visit Mrs. Frank Gorham, Mrs. Ticknor's cousin.

Mrs. Ticknor is the former Ethel Rhoads, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Rhoads, Dixon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ticknor, who formerly lived at Oak Park, but for the past 10 years have lived at Ft. Worth, Tex., and St. Petersburg, Fla., because of his ill health, came north recently for a visit when he became ill and passed away; the funeral being held Monday at Oak Park, with interment at Rosehill. Mrs. Ticknor, who passed her girlhood in Dixon, has many friends here.

Rockford Vet Divorced By English War Bride
Rockford, Ill., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Circuit judge William R. Dasher, granted Mrs. Joan Moore, 18, an English war bride, separate maintenance from Leslie Moore, 26, and decreed that Moore must pay her $10 weekly alimony and $10 support for their two-year-old son, Gean.

Mrs. Moore, the former Joan L. Marshall of London, testified that when she had arrived here in March her husband introduced her to a 19-year-old Rockford girl, Barbara Chamberlain, and asked her for a divorce, saying he wished to marry Miss Chamberlain.

Condemned Germans to Appeal; Request Clemency of Court

Defense Attorneys Will Try to Stop Hanging of War Criminals

Nuernberg, Germany, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Lawyers for the 11 condemned German war criminals disclosed today they planned to appeal to the allied control council to change the death sentences from hanging to shooting if all other pleas for clemency failed this evening.

The last court of resort for Hermann Goering, Joachim Von Ribbentrop and the others from the ignominy of the hangman's rope was formed of the four allied generals sitting in Berlin as occupation authorities for the four zones of Germany. A twelfth German, Martin Bormann, was sentenced in absentia to be hanged.

As attorneys drew their petitions, the four power commission representing the allied council held an all day session on arrangements and details for the executions Oct. 16 in Nuernberg, once the festival city of the Nazi party. They talked also of transporting seven of the war criminals to Berlin to start their prison terms.

A redoubtable force of American soldier guards surrounded the ancient courthouse and jail where the convicted men were held, and they had orders to shoot to kill on provocation.

Three Acquitted
All three men acquitted in the history-making international trial, which established planning aggressive war as a supreme crime, remained in jail overnight. They had no other place to go immediately. Hjalmar Schacht, the truculent former finance minister, planned to remain in jail at least another night, saying he had no money, ration card nor home.

Franz Von Papen asked for a visa to the French zone, in which he has two castles near the Rhine. Hans Fritzsche may have to return to the Russian zone, whence he came for a trial as a prisoner of war.

German lawyers for Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel and Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl, both relegated to the gallows, led the legal staff in aiming appeals for clemency, and for shooting rather than the rope if mercy is denied.

The doomed militarists were reported making a special request for a firing squad, which they considered a more honorable death for a soldier.

A lawyer for Fritz Sauckel, condemned labor leader, attached to this application for commutation hundreds of letters from Germans. Other attorneys said they were obtaining similar documents to bolster their appeals.

Four delegates — representing Britain, France, Russia and the United States, and appointed by the allied control council in Berlin to work out details of the executions—met in secret today for 10 months Nazism's leading figures were tried on war crimes charges.

Will Be Hanged
Here in the enclosure of the old courthouse of this city, which stood as a major symbol of Nazi power in the days of Adolf Hitler, the fuhrer's teammates of war-making days—Hermann Goering, Joachim Von Ribbentrop, Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, Ernst Kaltenbrunner, Hans Frank, Wilhelm Frick, Alfred Rosenberg, Julius Streicher, Fritz Sauckel, Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl and Arthur Seyss-Inquart—will be hanged on Oct. 16, unless the allied control council in Berlin overrules the tribunal.

There appeared to be little likelihood of such a reversal at the hands of the four-power group, but some of the condemned men apparently clung to a bare shred of hope—that they might be shot, and thus spared the disgrace of the rope.

A spokesman for the council said in Berlin that the condemned men would have until midnight Saturday to file their appeals and that such appeals would be "acted upon speedily."

The other seven convicts, who drew prison terms ranging from 10 years to life, will serve their time in a four-power jail in Berlin, the name of which was not disclosed "for security reasons."

For the same reason, no announcement was made as to when those men—Rudolph Hess, Walther Funk, Erich Raeder (all life terms), Baldur von Schirach, Albert Speer (20 years each), Constantin Von Neurath (15 years), and Karl Doenitz (10 years)—would be taken to Berlin.

In addition to the turmoil stirred up by the tribunal's acquittal

Oregon Farmers Told Feeding Will Not Be Profitable

The outlook for farm prices, particularly of livestock, was discussed at an Oregon meeting Tuesday, at which 60 farmers were present to hear Elmer Searls, University of Illinois, and Henry Johnson and Bob Schaaf, of the Chicago Producers, speak on the market situation and the outlook for the rest of 1946 and part of 1947.

The speakers agreed that because of the high feed costs and the livestock ceilings the feeding of hogs and cattle will be unprofitable for the next few weeks and that the outlook for livestock, especially hogs, that can be fattened on the 1946 corn crop and marketed in the first nine months of 1947, is more favorable.

It was stated that the livestock price ceilings should not be discouraging for efficient producers. Supplies of pork will be smaller in the late spring and summer of 1947 than this year because of the smaller 1946 fall pig crop, however, the speakers thought that supplies of good grade beef may be larger because the more plentiful feed supply will encourage more cattle feeding. The outlook for farm prices during the rest of 1946 and most of 1947 is generally favorable but the farmers' costs of production will be high. It is thought that a high level of consumer incomes, an export demand above prewar and smaller supplies of many farm products will result in higher farm prices throughout at least the first 9 months of 1947 than those which existed in 1945 and early 1946.

Farmers were advised to avoid speculative investments, hold production costs down and keep inventories at a conservative level.

Open Testimony in $10,000 Suit Today; Jury is Completed

Henert Case Against the Northwestern Up for Decision

It took less than an hour to select a jury to hear the $10,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. Mollie K. Henert against the Chicago & Northwestern railroad in Circuit court this morning, with the first 12 jurors chosen being accepted to hear the case. Opening arguments were presented shortly before noon.

Mrs. Henert is administratrix of the estate of her husband, William G., who was killed Nov. 20, 1945, along with Oscar Nass, when the car in which they were riding was struck by a Northwestern streamliner, the City of Los Angeles at the Richardson avenue crossing in Ashton.

A similar suit, filed by Mrs. Ethel C. Nass, against the railroad is pending in Circuit court here.

Suit Charges Negligence
The suit charges the railroad with failing to take proper precautions in warning traffic at the crossing of the approach of the streamliner. The complaint further charges that a freight standing on a side track near the crossing obstructed the view of the two men and made such noise that it drowned out sounds of the approaching streamliner.

The railroad, in its opening argument this morning, contended that the engineer of the freight blew a whistle to warn the men as they approached the crossing on a road parallel with the tracks and holds that Nass, who was driving the automobile, failed to look to the left, the direction from which the train approached, as he drove onto the crossing.

Claim Signals Worked
The defendant further claimed that warning bells and flasher

Hull, for 12 years President Roosevelt's secretary of state, has been described as seriously ill.

It was the 75th birthday of the man who also guided the State department for the first three years of World War II.

A light brain hemorrhage Monday night left him partly paralyzed and semi-conscious. Late yesterday the Navy issued a bulletin saying his condition had become "more serious."

KENTUCKY DRYING UP

Letcher County, in Kentucky, where they make a lot of whiskey but have the good sense to ship most of it out of the state, has gone dry. Three-fourths of Kentucky's 120 counties are now "arid." This is getting to be monotonous. There is no rest for John Barleycorn in that state. Every time he sits down, here comes That Man saying, "Move on, Bo!" Late Extra—Scott County has just joined the long list of dry counties.

POLLET STOPS BROOKLYN

Cards Slam Five Hurlers; Rookie Garagiola Stars

Enroute to Brooklyn, Oct. 2.—(AP) — Howie Pollet's heady pitching job against Brooklyn appears to have aroused the sluggish St. Louis Cardinals to a World Series pitch that could send them flying past the Dodgers in two straight ball games.

Nobody on the ball club is making predictions about what will happen at Ebbets field when baseball's first three-game play-off series resumes tomorrow, but the Redbirds are a loose, confident ball club after their 4-2 opening win at St. Louis yesterday.

Enos Slaughter's great peg from right field that nipped Bruce Edwards trying to go from first to third on Howie Schultz's seventh inning single probably saved the ball game. At least Manager Eddie Dyer of the Redbirds thinks it did.

Three hits by rookie catcher Joe Garagiola who drove in half the winners' runs was another highly-important factor in the all-important first game win.

Not since the Cards left Boston Sept. 19 had they cut loose with a hitting attack like they showed the Brooks' five pitchers. Only Stan Musial's seventh-inning triple was for extra bases but there were hits at timely points.
